20-CV-5347 (LLS)

ORDER TO AMEND

LOUIS L. STANTON, United States District Judge:

Plaintiff, appearing pro se, brings this action invoking the Court's federal question jurisdiction. She alleges that Defendants have denied her the right to participate in her minor child's education, and she seeks this Court's intervention in an ongoing Kings County Family Court matter. By order dated August 10, 2020, the Court granted Plaintiff's request to proceed without prepayment of fees, that is, in forma pauperis. For the reasons set forth below, the Court grants Plaintiff leave to file an amended complaint within sixty days of the date of this order.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

The Court must dismiss an in forma pauperis complaint, or any portion of the complaint, that is frivolous or malicious, fails to state a claim on which relief may be granted, or seeks monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief. 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B); see Livingston v. Adirondack Beverage Co., 141 F.3d 434, 437 (2d Cir. 1998). The Court must also dismiss a complaint when the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(h)(3).

While the law mandates dismissal on any of these grounds, the Court is obliged to construe pro se pleadings liberally, Harris v. Mills, 572 F.3d 66, 72 (2d Cir. 2009), and interpret them to raise the "strongest [claims] that they suggest," Triestman v. Fed. Bureau of Prisons, 470

F.3d 471, 474 (2d Cir. 2006) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted) (emphasis in original). But the “special solicitude” in pro se cases, id. at 475 (citation omitted), has its limits – to state a claim, pro se pleadings still must comply with Rule 8 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which requires a complaint to make a short and plain statement showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.

The Supreme Court has held that under Rule 8, a complaint must include enough facts to state a claim for relief “that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). A claim is facially plausible if the plaintiff pleads enough factual detail to allow the Court to draw the inference that the defendant is liable for the alleged misconduct. In reviewing the complaint, the Court must accept all well-pleaded factual allegations as true. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678-79 (2009). But it does not have to accept as true “[t]hreadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action,” which are essentially just legal conclusions. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. After separating legal conclusions from well-pleaded factual allegations, the Court must determine whether those facts make it plausible – not merely possible – that the pleader is entitled to relief. Id.

BACKGROUND

This action arises out of Plaintiff’s custody of her minor children and her involvement in the public education of one of her children. She names as Defendants Catholic Guardian Services (CGS); R. Negron, a caseworker at CGS; Careen Simeon, a supervisor at CGS; and M. Legree, an employee at the Brooklyn office for the Administration of Children’s Services (ACS) for the City of New York. Plaintiff currently resides in Yonkers, New York, although she previously lived in Brooklyn and Georgia.

The following facts are taken from the complaint, which is somewhat confusing as to its chronology: “In February 2020, the State of New York came and got my children, although they were stable, and were not residents of New York, taking them in the middle of a COVID-19 pandemic.” (ECF No. 2, at 9.) At some point after this event, Plaintiff’s two minor children, one who is autistic, were assigned caseworkers. One of those caseworkers, Defendant CGS Caseworker Negron, “belittled me verbally, manipulatively lied to the charge nurse that he did not know my whereabouts in order to have consent forms sent to me for my daughter[’s] care.” (Id.) After Plaintiff confirmed her address with Negron, he still failed to send her the forms, and as a result, Plaintiff’s daughter “is not receiving proper care.” (Id. at 10.)

On June 10, 2020, Negron asked Plaintiff if she would turn over my right to participate in a conference call on video conference regarding [her] autistic daughter’s testing and revisionment [sic] of her IEP [Individualized Education Plan] of which I [am] entitled to regardless of an order of protection which was not for violence but because Ms. Legree gave me permission to leave the state of New York to occupy my apartment.

(Id.) In fact,

Ms. Legree [had] informed me that I could leave the State of New York with my two youngest [children] because she had already verified that I had an apartment in South Carolina approved. . . . Instead Ms. Legree 6 months after the fact went back into court to get an order [of] protection against me although I was no where in New York but in my apartment in Stockbridge, GA . . . and both of my children . . . were enrolled in school.

(Id. at 8.)

For relief, Plaintiff asks this Court “to allow the court case in the Family Brooklyn Court to be transferred [here] . . . in order for [Plaintiff] to have a fair trial & hearings, for Mr. Negron’s and Ms. Legree’s behaviors to be questioned and investigated, and for the protection order to be lifted.” (Id. at 11.)

DISCUSSION

A. The Court denies Plaintiff's request that this Court intervene in her state-court matter

The Court construes Plaintiff's request that this Court "transfer" her ongoing state-court proceeding to this Court as a request for this Court to intervene in her Kings County Family Court matter. The Court denies the request under the doctrine set forth in Younger v. Harris, 401 U.S. 37 (1971).

In Younger, the United States Supreme Court held that a federal court may not enjoin a pending state criminal proceeding in the absence of special circumstances suggesting bad faith, harassment, or irreparable injury that is both serious and immediate. See Disability Rights New York v. New York, 916 F.3d 129, 133 (2d Cir. 2019) (citing Huffman v. Pursue, Ltd., 420 U.S. 592 (1975)). Younger abstention is appropriate in only three categories of state court proceedings: (1) state criminal prosecutions; (2) civil enforcement proceedings that are "akin to criminal prosecutions"; and (3) civil proceedings "that implicate a State's interest in enforcing the orders and judgments of its courts." Sprint Commc'n, Inc. v. Jacobs, 134 S. Ct. 584, 588 (2013).

In Sprint, the Supreme Court suggested that family court abuse and neglect proceedings are barred by the Younger abstention doctrine because they are a type of state-initiated civil enforcement proceedings that are "akin to [] criminal prosecution." See Sprint, 134 S. Ct. at 592 (citing Moore v. Sims, 442 U.S. 415, 419-420 (1979)); see also Davis v. Baldwin, 594 F. App'x 49, 51 (2d Cir. 2015) (summary order) (noting that the Supreme Court placed "a state-initiated proceeding to gain custody allegedly abused by their parents" in the second Sprint category).

Plaintiff seeks federal intervention into her ongoing state-court matter in Kings County Family Court, which involves an order of protection against Plaintiff. As Plaintiff has alleged no facts showing bad faith, harassment, or irreparable injury with respect to this pending state-court matter, the Court will not intervene in the proceeding and dismisses, under Younger, any claims for injunctive relief.

B. The Court transfers Plaintiff’s claims brought against Legree to the Eastern District of New York

Because Plaintiff invokes this Court’s federal question jurisdiction, the Court construes the complaint as asserting a claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983.

Plaintiff alleges that ACS employee Legree sought an order of protection against Plaintiff regarding her two minor children, even though Plaintiff lived in Georgia and her children were enrolled in school.¹ The Court construes this allegation as asserting a malicious-abuse-of-process claim² and transfers this claim under 28 U.S.C. § 1404 to the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York.

Under the general venue provision, a civil action may be brought in:

(1) a judicial district in which any defendant resides, if all defendants are residents of the State in which the district is located; (2) a judicial district in which a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim occurred . . . ; or (3) if there is no district in which an action may otherwise be brought as provided in this section, any judicial district in which any defendant is subject to the court’s personal jurisdiction with respect to such action.

28 U.S.C. § 1391(b). For venue purposes, a “natural person” resides in the district where the person is domiciled. 28 U.S.C. § 1391(c)(1). Because Plaintiff does not allege whether Legree resides in this District, it is unclear whether venue is proper here under § 1391(b)(1).

² In New York, a plaintiff may state a malicious-abuse-of-process claim “against a defendant who (1) employs regularly issued legal process to compel performance or forbearance of some act (2) with intent to do harm without excuse of justification, and (3) in order to obtain a collateral objective that is outside the legitimate ends of the process.” Id. at 76.

Even if venue were proper here, however, the Court may transfer claims “[f]or the convenience of the parties and witnesses, in the interest of justice.” 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a). “District courts have broad discretion in making determinations of convenience under Section 1404(a) and notions of convenience and fairness are considered on a case-by-case basis.” D.H. Blair & Co. v. Gottdiener, 462 F.3d 95, 106 (2d Cir. 2006). Moreover, courts may transfer cases on their own initiative. See Bank of Am., N.A. v. Wilmington Trust FSB, 943 F. Supp. 2d 417, 426-427 (S.D.N.Y. 2013) (“Courts have an independent institutional concern to see to it that the burdens of litigation that is unrelated to the forum that a party chooses are not imposed unreasonably on jurors and judges who have enough to do in determining cases that are appropriately before them. The power of district courts to transfer cases under Section 1404(a) sua sponte therefore is well established.” (quoting Cento v. Pearl Arts & Craft Supply Inc., No. 03-CV-2424, 2003 WL 1960595, at *1 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 24, 2003))); see also Lead Indus. Ass’n. Inc. v. OSHA., 610 F.2d 70, 79 (2d Cir. 1979) (noting that “broad language of 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a) would seem to permit a court to order transfer sua sponte”).

In determining whether transfer is appropriate, courts consider the following factors: (1) the convenience of witnesses; (2) the convenience of the parties; (3) the locus of operative facts; (4) the availability of process to compel the attendance of the unwilling witnesses; (5) the location of relevant documents and the relative ease of access to sources of proof; (6) the relative means of the parties; (7) the forum’s familiarity with the governing law; (8) the weight accorded to the plaintiff’s choice of forum; (9) trial efficiency; and (10) the interest of justice, based on the totality of circumstances. Keitt v. N.Y. City, 882 F. Supp. 2d 412, 459-60 (S.D.N.Y. 2011); see also N.Y. Marine and Gen. Ins. Co. v. LaFarge No. Am., Inc., 599 F.3d 102, 112 (2d Cir. 2010) (setting forth similar factors). A plaintiff’s choice of forum is accorded less deference where plaintiff does not reside in the chosen forum and the operative events did not occur there. See Irigorri v. United Tech. Corp., 274 F.3d 65, 72 (2d Cir. 2001).

Under § 1404(a), transfer of Plaintiff's claims brought against Legree appear to be appropriate because the underlying claims occurred in Kings County, which falls within the Eastern District of New York. See 28 U.S.C. § 112(a). Venue is therefore proper in the Eastern District of New York under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(2). Based on the totality of the circumstances, the Court concludes that it is in the interest of justice to transfer Plaintiff's claims against Legree to the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York. 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a).

C. The Court dismisses Plaintiff's claims against GSC, Negron, and Simeon

A claim for relief under § 1983 must allege facts showing that each defendant acted under the color of a state "statute, ordinance, regulation, custom or usage." 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Private parties are not generally liable under the statute. Sykes v. Bank of America, 723 F.3d 399, 406 (2d Cir. 2013) (citing Brentwood Acad. v. Tenn. Secondary Sch. Athletic Ass'n, 531 U.S. 288, 295 (2001)); see also Ciambriello v. Cnty. of Nassau, 292 F.3d 307, 323 (2d Cir. 2002) ("[T]he United States Constitution regulates only the Government, not private parties.").

CGS is a private organization.³ A private entity's activity can be attributed to the government in only three situations: (1) the entity acts using the coercive power of the state or is controlled by the state (the "compulsion test"); (2) the entity willfully participates in joint activity with the state or its functions are entwined with state policies (the "joint action" or "close nexus" test); or (3) the state has delegated a public function to the entity (the "public function" test). Fabrikant v. French, 691 F.3d 193, 207 (2d Cir. 2012). The fundamental question under each test is whether the private entity's challenged actions are "fairly attributable" to the government. Id. (citing Rendell-Baker v. Kohn, 457 U.S. 830, 838 (1982)).

Here, Plaintiff fails to allege any facts suggesting that CGS, Negron, and Simeon acted under color of state law. Plaintiff alleges that Negron asked her not to appear by videoconference at a meeting concerning her daughter's IEP and failed to provide her forms concerning the IEP. These two allegations cannot fairly be attributable to the state. Thus, as Defendants CGS, Negron, and Simeon are private parties who do not work for any state or other government body, and Plaintiff has not alleged facts sufficient to show that they were acting under color of state law in their interactions with her, the Court dismisses Plaintiff's § 1983 claims against these defendants for failure to state a claim.

D. The Court grants Plaintiff leave to file an amended complaint to assert a claim under the Individuals with Disabilities in Education Act (IDEA)

Because Plaintiff alleges that her daughter is not "receiving proper care" and refers to her daughter's IEP, the Court construes the complaint as asserting a claim under the Individuals with Disabilities in Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C. §§ 1400-1414. The IDEA requires school districts to provide a "free and appropriate public education" to all of its students with disabilities. § 1400(d)(1)(A). The "IDEA requires school districts to develop an IEP for each child with a disability, see §§ 1412(a)(4), 1414(d), with parents playing 'a significant role' in this process," Winkelman ex rel. Winkelman v. Parma City Sch. Dist., 550 U.S. 516, 524 (2007) (quoting Schaffer v. Weast, 546 U.S. 49, 53, (2005)). Thus, parents possess rights under the IDEA. Id.

If a parent believes that the state is not providing a free and appropriate education for her child, "the parent may file a due process complaint that challenges the appropriateness of the IEP and attend a hearing before an IHO [independent hearing officer].” F.C. v. New York City Dep’t of Educ., No. 15-CV-6045, 2016 WL 8716232, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Aug. 5, 2016) (citing 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f); N.Y. Educ. Law § 4404(1))). The parent may appeal the IHO’s decision to a state review officer (SRO). Id. (citing 20 U.S.C. § 1415(g); N.Y. Educ. Law § 4404(2))). An appeal from the SRO’s decision may be brought as a civil action in federal or state court. Id. (citing 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A); N.Y. Educ. Law § 4404(3))).

Before bringing an action in state or federal court under the IDEA, parents are required to exhaust state hearing and review procedures. J.S. v. Attica Cent. Sch., 386 F.3d 107, 112 (2d Cir. 2004) (“It is well settled that the IDEA requires an aggrieved party to exhaust all administrative remedies before bringing a civil action in federal or state court.”). But a parent who can show that exhaustion would be futile may proceed in federal court without exhausting her claims. Coleman v. Newburgh Enlarged City Sch. Dist., 503 F.3d 198, 205 (2d Cir. 2007) (noting that the IDEA’s exhaustion requirement “does not apply ‘in situations in which exhaustion would be futile’” (quoting Polera v. Bd. of Educ. of Newburgh Enlarged City Sch. Dist., 288 F.3d 478, 488 (2d Cir. 2002))).

Here, Plaintiff does not allege enough facts to suggest that her daughter’s school district has not provided a free and appropriate public education. She also does not allege any facts suggesting that she has exhausted her remedies or that exhaustion would be futile. The Court therefore grants Plaintiff leave to file an amended complaint within sixty days of the date of this order to address these deficiencies. In Plaintiff’s amended complaint, she must name the school district in which her daughter is currently attending school. The Court notes that if her daughter is attending a school outside of this District, the Court may transfer this claim to the district in which the school district is located.

LEAVE TO AMEND

Plaintiff is granted leave to amend her complaint to name the school district in which her daughter attends school and to detail her claims under the IDEA. In the statement of claim, Plaintiff must provide a short and plain statement of the relevant facts supporting each claim against each defendant named in the amended complaint. Plaintiff is also directed to provide the addresses for any named defendants. To the greatest extent possible, Plaintiff's amended complaint must:

- a) give the names and titles of all relevant persons;
- b) describe all relevant events, stating the facts that support Plaintiff's case including what each defendant did or failed to do;
- c) give the dates and times of each relevant event or, if not known, the approximate date and time of each relevant event;
- d) give the location where each relevant event occurred;
- e) describe how each defendant's acts or omissions violated Plaintiff's rights and describe the injuries Plaintiff suffered; and
- f) state what relief Plaintiff seeks from the Court, such as money damages, injunctive relief, or declaratory relief.

Essentially, the body of Plaintiff's amended complaint must tell the Court: who violated her federally protected rights; what facts show that her federally protected rights were violated; when such violation occurred; where such violation occurred; and why Plaintiff is entitled to relief. Because Plaintiff's amended complaint will completely replace, not supplement, the original complaint, any facts or claims that Plaintiff wishes to maintain must be included in the amended complaint.

CONCLUSION

The Clerk of Court is directed to mail a copy of this order to Plaintiff and note service on the docket. Plaintiff is granted leave to file an amended complaint in support of her claims under the IDEA. Plaintiff must submit the amended complaint to this Court's Pro Se Intake Unit within sixty days of the date of this order, caption the document as an "Amended Complaint," and label the document with docket number 20-CV-5347 (LLS). An Amended Complaint form is attached to this order. No summons will issue at this time. If Plaintiff fails to comply within the time allowed, and she cannot show good cause to excuse such failure, the complaint will be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

The Clerk of Court is directed to (1) transfer Plaintiff's claims brought against M. Legree to the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York, see 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a); and (2) dismiss Legree from this action without prejudice to Plaintiff's suit in the Eastern District.

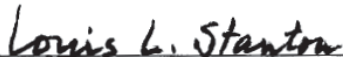

The Court dismisses from the action Defendants Catholic Guardian Services, Negron, and Simeon. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B)(ii).

In light of the current global health crisis, parties proceeding pro se are encouraged to submit all filings by email to Temporary_Pro_Se_Filing@nysd.uscourts.gov. Pro se parties also are encouraged to consent to receive all court documents electronically. I. BASIS FOR JURISDICTION

Federal courts are courts of limited jurisdiction (limited power). Generally, only two types of cases can be heard in federal court: cases involving a federal question and cases involving diversity of citizenship of the parties. Under 28 U.S.C. § 1331, a case arising under the United States Constitution or federal laws or treaties is a federal question case. Under 28 U.S.C. § 1332, a case in which a citizen of one State sues a citizen of another State or nation, and the amount in controversy is more than $75,000, is a diversity case. In a diversity case, no defendant may be a citizen of the same State as any plaintiff.
